OUR FACULTY.

The one outstanding feature of McPherson College has been, and still is, the strength and character of the faculty. This is the fundamental essential of a school. The old maxim, "A student on one end of a log, and Mark Hopkins on the other, makes a university," is still true. There was a time a few years ago when colleges and universities were gauged by brick and mortar, by the extent and expensiveness of grounds, buildings, laboratories, etc. This appealed for a while to the masses who are interested in display. But all Truth has the habit of resurrection, and the fundamental truth that a college depends upon "Personality" is again coming to the fore.

The strength and character of a college depend first and last upon the personality of its faculty. Here is where McPherson shines.

With respect to scholarship, the McPherson College Faculty has five men who have the Doctor's degree, all of whom either have taught in universities, or have had opportunities to do so. All of these men have been students in the best universities of America, and Europe, and their scholarship is recognized everywhere.

Besides those of the doctorate, there are six other professors who have either the Master's degree or its equivalent, who also have received their degrees in our best universities, and under our greatest scholars. The scholarship of our faculty is second to none as compared with other Christian institutions of the state or country. Our instructors are not only noted for scholarship, but also for that rare gift, the ability to teach. They are efficient instructors.

But scholarship and teaching ability are not all the things we can say for our faculty. Above all these things is the fact that all these professors are Christian men and women of the highest ideals. The high moral earnestness, and the religious faith of the faculty are the greatest factors in the development of character. Each professor is making a financial sacrifice to promote the cause of Christian Education at McPherson College because they all recognize that this is the greatest need for the future of our civilization. We have here a body of teachers who have Vision, Purpose, Ideals, and they are making personal sacrifices to promote the Cause of the Kingdom of God on earth.

The trustees of McPherson College have a definite policy to hire no teachers unless their scholarship meets the requirements of a standard college, and their character must be Christian and exemplary, and their attitude must be one of Loyalty to the cause for which the college exists. We are glad to announce to our patrons that we have such a faculty.

"A school is the creation of the proper environment for the development of a soul." McPherson College has the best environment in America for this purpose. Send your children to McPherson College for a Christian education, to fit them for the happiest and most useful lives. Here they will get Knowledge, Power, Skill, and the true point of view of life and of things. Here they will develop the highest character, and acquire the elements of leadership for the future. All the elements are here for the growing of a soul, for social efficiency and for individual perfection.

AGRICULTURE.

The School of Agriculture is organized to ~~meet~~ meet the needs of the young man who may need instruction closely identified with the life of the farm and shop. Its sole purpose is to fit men for life in the open country and to make country life more attractive; to make the work shop more efficient; in short, to dignify and improve industrial life.

McPherson has conditions that especially fit it for the location of an agricultural college. It is located in the heart of a great agricultural region noted for its wheat, corn, kaffir corn, alfalfa and its soil conditions are the very best, many types being available for study. Located near the college are some of the best cattle feeders of the State, modern dairies and pure bred herds of various kinds. All these are available for student observation and study.

The equipment of the department is fast becoming what is expected of modern agricultural colleges. It has all equipment for first class work.

The City has sanitary sewers. All the college buildings are connected with the city sewer, city water and city light systems. THAT PIG—AND CALF—AND BOY.

A certain man had two sons. When each was ten years old he was given a pig—and a letter as follows:

"My Dear Son:—You are now ten years old; you will soon be a man. Your father expects that above all else, you grow up into a useful man. You are to go to school. You are to go on to college and develop the powers of your mind to their highest efficiency. You will need money to pay your expenses. Your father wants you to share in the joy of producing it. Today, you are given a healthy pig which is to be your very own. You are to care for it as a means of making some money for your expenses when you enter college. Remember, your father will always be ready to help you as to methods of conducting your business, but he expects you to learn the very necessary art of earning your own money before you spend it.

Time and money and effort in your young days, spent in educating yourself for your life's big work, is the best investment you can ever make.

Your well wishing,

FATHER.

And the pigs grew and waxed fat. At 300 pounds, they were sold and the proceeds invested in calves. These likewise grew and brought their owners gains. At seventeen, the boys went away to college, each proudly paying his own bills.—W. O. B.
