WESLEYAN CUYOTES IN FAST COURT CONTEST

Makes Second Conference Victory For The Canines With 10 Defeats—Visitors Unable To Play The Type Of Ball The Champions Offered

McPHERSON 31, SALINA 23

Victims Held Four Pain Lead At Meet But Were Quickly Overwhelmed

Community Opn. Tues. Jan. 14—The McPherson college Bulldogs turned back the Kansas Wesleyan Coyotes last night with a decisive defeat of 31 to 23 in the first home conference game for the local team. The victory of the Bulldogs two weeks ago, giving two losses to the Kansas conference basketball team. The visitors were unable to play the type of ball the champions offered tonight which resulted in the reverse of their facile defiance of their aboriginal Illinois and was about to produce a "walk-off" for the first string men who were sent to the substitute.

The local boys set up a three point lead in their first half. The Coyotes rallied a 7 to 3 lead which they held momentarily until the famous Canine strike was hit and in short order the lead was in the hands of the Bulldogs where it stood 18 to 12 at the half period. The Coyotes threatened seriously at the beginning of the second period when they piled up five points in two for the local team. It was with the score standing 23 to 17 in their favor that the real game started for the Bulldogs, after which they piled up their lead to 25 points without a single threat from the opposition. With four minutes to go the second team was sent to the benches, the only regular on the floor. A stall game was played and several personal fouls committed which gave the Musketeers a more active game.

Miller, the lanky Bulldog captain and center and famous scoring ace was high point man of the game with twelve scores by his name. Decker and Crampacker followed closely.

COLLEGE CHORUS WILL PRESENT OPERA "MIKADO"

Opera By Gilbert and Sullivan Is Most Universally Appreciated Musical Comedy

REHEARSALS HAVE STARTED

Now Curtis Is Making The Leading Characters—Music Light And Humorous

There, Jan. 16—Mrs. Anna Tate, instructor in voice, announced this morning that the college chorus would present the opera "Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan in the Community Hall on the evening of March 19.

Tate also stated that rehearsals have already started. The "Mikado" is in some respects the most universally appreciated of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operas and by some it is considered the most popular of all the operas written by these famous composers.

The text is filled with charming pathos and humor. The instrumentation being a model of its kind. The score is laid in Japan and the characters portrayed are Japanese.

Although it was first produced in the sixties, curiously enough the opera still anticipates the time of writing and does not only portray the Japanese but also in a very thin disguise.

Part I selected to take the leading part is as follows: Mikado of Japan—Ross Curtis, Nanki-Poo, his one daughter, a minister in love with Yum-Yum—Lloyd Dugas.

Poo-Boh, Lord High Executioner of Yips—Dorothy Harris. Poo-Nah, Lord High Scepter of Yips—Orville Yorga.

Pak-Tan, a monk—Lloyd—Walter Williams. Yum-Yum, ward of Ko-Ko—Kathleen Helling.

Puldin, ward of Ko-Ko—Edna in the library.

Poop-Bo, ward of Ko-Ko—Helen Kavelin. Nellie, an elderly lady in love with Nanki-Poo—Irma Stittler.

CECILIAN MEET FOR BI-WEEKLY PROGRAM

Mon. Jan. 13—The Cecilia Music Society held its bi-weekly meeting this evening in the chapel. "Modern Song and Music Compositions" was the subject of the program, which was led by Harriet Hopkins. Several new songs were given to illustrate the modern trends in music.

The program consisted of the following numbers: "Modern Song" by Wagner, Miss Pora Lechner; vocal solo. "The Open Road" by Brown, Mrs. Anna Tate; vocal solo. "Modern Compositions" by Harriet Hopkins; vocal solo. "Modern Compositions" by Harriet Hopkins; vocal solo.

THREE VAGANCS FILLED IN THE C. E. CABINET

There, Jan. 20—At a meeting of the Christian Endeavor cabinet this evening three vacancies in the cabinet were filled. The cabinet is headed by Louis Trosie and elected vice-president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Leland Lindell. Ruth Miller was elected chairman of the social committee in place of Herbert McElvaine who resigned. The cabinet will meet again in place of Lawrence Turner who has left school.

THIEF VISITS PARLOR IN MEN'S DORMITORY

Fri. Jan. 17—It was discovered this morning that during the night some one with the prowling instinct had prowled around in the men's dormitory and had disappeared with the new McPherson college emblem. One was in the form of a necklace and was hidden in a pocket; the other, a large rectangular emblem. As far as is known no person was seen and no one was disturbed.

CAR HELD IN SWAMP

Wagon Held At Night By Two Men Near Newkane

After spending months traveling in Mexico Prof. H. H. Nimmer, head of the college history department has recently returned to McPherson. This trip was made in Mexico in the interest of research and the tracing of historical events. The tour of Mexico was made in a car, and the party enjoyed their own camp which afforded some thrilling experiences which were doubtless very cozy for his party.

The roads in Mexico are unfavorable to speedy travel, making progress in transportation very slow and difficult. The three party spent about three weeks traveling to Mexico City, a distance of perhaps six or seven hundred miles. On the particular evening of this story Prof. Nimmer happened to spend the night in a small Mexican town where he was held up by two men.

As they passed through a miniature Mexican village their stage wagon was held up by two men who were their escort to inquire what was the reason for the village. They were held up for some time but finally they were released. Finally they were assured that this particular road was the right road. But to their utter amazement the road ended after they had covered two miles of Mexican path. An expert guide was hired of their trail and so they decided to follow an unpaved road of their own running parallel to the railroad track. They thought some that another road might open up to them as they followed the railroad track.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

It has been a custom for a number of years that students should not date at basketball games. It has been upheld that more and better cheering would be done if men and women were not attracted by the "date" motif. It is not a matter of force that the cheerleaders should see that each student has been left honor bound and to avoid the visitors and the team that the "bullies" draw.

This question brings up the usual conflict—if we are to have a ruling that dates shall not all together at court assemblies let us enforce it. If not, let us do away with it in former years the center portion of the building section has been reserved for the women "only" and the men "to the right and left." This has proved a very satisfactory system and greatly divides the cheering force in such a manner that the "two groups" only may be centered successfully. If it is understood that dates are to date from the game is not desirable.

Maybe it is that the integrity dates and the romantic date have such a bond in common that a separation for one evening's cooperator with our athletic fans would be a disservice of the cause of mutual friendship. If it is the will of the students that a special section be reserved for "dates only" then the concentrated efforts of the cheerleaders will become more effective.

The College of Emporia has met this identical problem and have based their decision on the fact that it is the honor of the student body that should support the team while on the court and have advocated "dateless basketball games".

TEN THOUSAND OR "BUT"

Each student certainly has a book or two in his possession that he could afford to give to the library and therefore he of a material help to the library committee in raising the number of volumes to 10,000.

Every educational institution needs a well supplied library of reference books, where a student may go to find out the problems of date and book knowledge. A good library should be the student's pride and to utilize this pride he should take an interest in the enlarging of its supply of books. If each student donated one book and with the aid of outside sources the quota could be reached easily in a very short time.

WHAT SHALL WE INDULGE IN?

This week we are not only wondering if we have anything in our hands but are attempting to select a group of subjects with which to spend our time with most efficiency. If Henderson was a freshman he would probably call this work "hell" and try to make the best of it by treating it as such.

Whether it be Henderson's week or not we are coming into our own week of efficiency.

A wide range of courses are offered to the students of the college and it is up to them to know something they are interested in and will enjoy. It is best that we get our "required" course out of the way as much as possible in our first two years, leaving the last two chiefly elective. If such a course is followed he will not find that on his graduation day that he lacks an hour of A credits or is shy an hour for his major. (That would certainly be a detour).

Now it is time for a student to indulge in a subject that he or she simply desires. It will prove a waste of time and money and he will receive no good from it. Besides one like an artist should be satisfied deeper than the mere covers of the text book. If he has a definite aim if he knows what he wants to specialize in, and is stimulated with a desire to work, a student is more or less contented.

One to never happy unless he is busy.

The Haymaker, Phillips D says that "most people never think seriously about anything until they are married, or broke, or some other catastrophe has hit them"—we would like to ask them how they have their consciences.

McPHERSON IS CERTAIN OF CHRISTIAN INTENT

Wed. Jan 18—Word was received here this afternoon, by Emory McGee, president of the local Young Men's Christian Association, that McPherson college could count definitely on the Christian World Education Institute to be held here on March 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 1929.

The purpose of this institute is to help students realize vividly what the modern world is like, and what it means to be a Christian in a world of present complex civilization; to help them in their thinking regarding new "isms" in international, international, and economic life, as well as the world programs of the church; and to supplement the work done in the college curriculum by a visit of personal and first hand experience in reference to the same. The institute will be made up of a few students away from the campus to a conference, the plan is to bring the conference to the campus, making it available for evening and filling it up to its fullest capacity.

The Christian World Education Institute is a new idea that has been the second year it has been held in the Rocky Mountain region. It is one of the most outstanding factors in the Christianization of the world. The Christian Association and last year twenty private and state institutions participated in it. McPherson participated in it and has arranged a delegation of thirty to the Wichita conference.

The program, which will be in charge of a local committee of which Emory McGee is chairman, has not yet been arranged. But the main part of the institute will be carried out in classroom periods, chapel or assemblies, cabinet meetings and luncheons or banquets.

Nothing definite is known about the leadership of the McPherson Institute, but Lyman Hoover of Denver, chairman of that work this year, said weeks ago a month ago, that possibly the institute will be held at McPherson, as of Norman Thomas, Executive Secretary of the League for Industrial Democracy; Frank T. Wilson, head of the Federal Student Society in the former Indiana meeting of the World Education Conference, and Emory McGee, McPherson, Kansas, Director of the Christian World Education Institute, an international affair.

JUST LIKE A . . .

The timid Roel observes that women buy their face in the window and don't wear them till summer. . . .

MORE PROOF FOR SAYING "JUST LIKE A WOMAN"

You have heard the statement, "Just like a woman"—and have wondered where was any positive proof to verify its truthfulness. We have found a proof that justifies its use.

Since Dr. Herby started the shipment of the country on the 20th, positive conviction this fall with the announcement that he had made an artificial diamond, he has received many letters from teachers and chemists throughout the United States asking about his experimenting. Many newspapers and magazines have carried stories of his synthetic diamonds. From a certain high school teacher in the west, Dr. Herby has received the letter:

Dear Sir:

"In the Nov. 4 issue of the Pathfinder there was an article regarding your experiment in subjecting tons of sugar to a process, thereby making a square-cut diamond. "Upon reading this a dispute at once arose among the members of the class, some claiming this could not be done, others claiming if the sugar was heated and subjected to heat that it could be made into so small a form.

"Would you be so kind as to send me more of a detailed description, so I can settle this dispute?"

The teacher has furnished the actual circumstances to a great extent. The exact process is as follows:

"Common sugar is placed in a granular crucible about ten centimeters high and seven centimeters in diameter. The heat, only the crystals remaining. It is heated with iron filings and melted at a high temperature and then thrust into an ice water bath. The crystals are crushed and the pressure of the ton to the square inch is exerted."

SPECULATIONS

We are grieved to say that Prof. Perry does not like the Kansas weather—Kansas, the sunflower state—and says that we can have our money back from him in Indiana. And yet, we haven't heard him saying that good old song, "The Girl I Love Besting."

Dan Mohler wonders if the four divisions and the four morticians, as listed by Prof. Tack in his chapel sermon, have a bond in common. We do not know about such a correlation but do suggest that they certainly must cooperate.

We are wondering if Miss Shilly has any particular reason for having the chapel orchestra work up Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

You had Dr. Schwalm didn't hear Dixie sing "All of the Family are there"?

We imagine Prof. Hale is quite an oratorical about those "necessary" and "God-given" degrees when he is on the road, but probably his oratory is even more eloquent of his real state of mind.

Do you "paw" Prof. Hess has been speculating on the bond of trade? Anyway, he's got a new "Cherry St."

HORRORS OF DYNAMITE

Early one morning a prominent citizen of a small neighboring town was awakened by a child's shrill wail at his window.

"There's a burglar in our basement and we've got dynamite down here!"

The voice belonged to the ten-year-old daughter of the aforementioned citizen's tenant who lived next door. Based and annoyed, he arose and dressed. Dynamite in the basement, indeed! Did the man plan to blow up the house?

As he accompanied her, the child pointed to the basement.

"The folks are gone and the area's back yet. And I was all alone and I just know I heard something in the basement and Daddy put dynamite down there last night."

With a disgusted snarl she stepped the door and glared at the man for several minutes. He was, and that. A scared pup cowered at the corner.

"Hamp! There's nobody down here—now there's that dynamite" he demanded.

The child's eyes opened in amazement.

"Why, there's dynamite," she said, indicating the dog.

SOCIAL AND RACIAL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Thurs. Jan. 17—(Social and racial) problems which the United States face in dealing with the people of foreign countries. It presents later in Y. M. S. this morning.

Kermit Hayes spoke upon the problems confronting us in dealing with the race of the Orient. The immigration laws are very strict, even excluding all people from certain countries. This is thought necessary for several reasons. It prevents intermarriage. It enables us to maintain a higher standard of living, it helps to prevent moral degeneracy, and it helps to maintain the conditions inherited by them, and keeps the country from being over-run by cheap labor.

But on the other hand, they are persons. They are thrifty or they couldn't compete with us. They come from the better classes or they would not succeed here.

There is also a problem concerning students who come from the Orient. The immigration problem concerning Europeans was discussed by Dr. Bernhart Gorman. It is not the number of them that concerns Oriental because America is the product of European civilization.

There are two classes of European immigrants. Those from Northern Europe are thrifty and settle in the west. Those from Southern Europe are on the whole less desirable and settle largely in cities of the East. They are the ones who tend to lower the standard of living.

We have advantages. Should we alone possess them and exclude others? This is the problem. It is yet to be solved.

C. F. Gustafson, A. B. '19, teacher of chemistry in the Kansas City High School, visited relatives in McPherson recently. The trip from Kansas City to Salina was by train.

FORNEY RELATES SOME INTERESTING EXPERIENCES HE HAS HAD WITH FUN-HUNGRY STUDENTS ON CAMPUS

Has Been Custodian Of The College For The Last Ten Years—His Most Exciting Moment Was When Student Placed His Cow On The Chapel Stage

EDITHON NOTE

This is the fifth of a series of articles concerning interesting persons on the campus, both faculty and students.

BY JOHN BERKEBILE

Yes, it's alive to get up in the morning, but it's much alive to remember those cold mornings. At least that is the way Mr. Frank W. Forney, custodian in charge of the buildings and campus at McPherson college, looks at the situation. At four or five o'clock in the good old winter time while most of us are snoring on the sofa or read Mr. Forney's article in his life to provide heat and comfort for all of us. Because for many years in the table of ranking without a little reading, you know.

As a man as daylight approached the party found time to help the cow get out of the mud but this was also kindly toward them. Some motive for departing struck the McPherson man and then hit the camp. The Nininger party was already ready when the uninvited guests were gone.

FRANK W. FORNEY

Mr. Forney tells us of one particularly interesting "prank" that was pulled a few years ago by several freshmen Fabnestock hall boys. It was that Paul Yuder was about ready to call on his fair lady one evening and his suitcase found the keys to his room were missing. To be brief Paul and the lady were depicted of a lovely spring evening together. Later that evening, so Mr. Forney tells us, Mr. Yuder took the five or six practical jokes for a ride in his car, telling them that he would return good for evil and take them for a ride and eventually took them. Eventually the boys were treated to a ride which took them five miles into the country and strange as it may seem, they walked home.

This is only one of the many stories "Forney" is capable of telling his readers. At times Forney enjoys the invitation of such happy pranks. At one time particularly he provoked the attention of the drum boys. It was during a "Swede watch" several years ago and Mr. Forney was walking toward the library. "The Swedes," he heard. And though it happened in the few hours of the morning, every boy in Fabnestock hall was out of his bed, ready for the battle. Needless to say, Forney was not seen much that day.

Frank Forney was born in Falls City, Nebraska. While he was still very young he moved to Abilene, Kansas. It was in this community that he grew to manhood. One of his earliest friends was a gentleman by the name of Brown, who is at the present time president of the United Telephone company.

At the age of sixteen Forney moved to Waterloo, Iowa, to become a construction worker. After a few years in this work he enrolled as a student in Mount Morris college in Illinois. He started to college with a scanty $100.00, and during his college days he was entirely self-supporting. He made his way by working at jobs such as dish-washing and janitor work. At the end of two years in Mount Morris he received the degree of Bachelor of Commerce. He returned to Waterloo, resumed his former work as a construction man and a few years later met and married the lady who is now his wife.

In 1918 Mr. Forney moved with his family in McPherson where he was given the position he is now holding during his time here he has seen, and has been the promoter of many improvements, both on the campus and in the buildings. Forney has greatly improved the heating system in the boys dormitory. He has been the cause of great improvements on the campus. When he first came to McPherson only a small space in front of the library was properly kept. Through his efforts the remainder of the grounds were improved and as a result we now enjoy the beauty of a well-kept campus. He has also improved the general appearance of the grounds by finding a means of disposal for trash and refuse. These are only a few of the improvements which have been brought about by Forney's tireless efforts.

"My most perplexing moment in McPherson," says Mr. Forney, "was the time that Albert Adams 'Wax' it le was about 8,000 feet and the night air was sharp. About midnight the party was suddenly startled and awakened by a sudden and yelling on their feet. Instantly they reached for their axes and crawled quietly to the top of the hill where they were grouped. The hall girls, McPherson, The Nininger party asked them what they wanted and their desire was to get sober in the tent. Professor Nininger told them that they had no room for extra in the tent but still they insisted on entering the tent. Professor Nininger's companion, Alex. Richards, who he had no interest in the McPherson trying to impress upon them to leave. It rained at least a half hour when the Nininger party covered their heads by carrying them out to come in. Then the McPherson wanted to help them remove their car from the mud but this was also kindly toward them. Some motive for departing struck the McPherson man and then hit the camp. The Nininger party was already ready when the uninvited guests were gone.

As soon as daylight approached the party found time to help the cow get out of the mud but this was also kindly toward them. Some motive for departing struck the McPherson man and then hit the camp. The Nininger party was already ready when the uninvited guests were gone.

"AMERICAN MUSIC LACKS WEALTH", HAMMANN STATES

Tues., Jan. 14—"American music lacks wealth," says Max Hammann's statement in Y. W. C. A. This morning as he discussed the "Cultural Influence of Music of Other Countries on Us." The influence of the music of primitive people and every succeeding civilization has contributed to our music. America has been the melting pot of the world's music production. We have no folk songs because such nationality represented has brought its own.

Foreign literature has a wealth of cultural value for us, was made from the English literature. Southern Europe is at present the richest in modern work, but Northern Europe is fast gaining popularity. Harriet Hopkins discussed this topic.

"Foreign art influences our pictures, architecture, furniture, clothes, and household ornaments. Very little of our effort at decoration is original with the Western Hemisphere," says Gladys Iyer.

Travelers gain much of the culture of other countries something in Vienna. Hattenbach who led the discussion. However, those who stay at home come in contact with much more by foreign culture than they realize, during the devotional period, Vera Pava sang "Prayer Perfect".

"Having heard so much about bandits in this particular area the party was rather fearful in pitching camp in this unprotected place. For only the night before two carloads of soldiers had come up to the camp and were armed with bayoneted rifles and machine guns in search of bandits who had deliberately murdered a man in the afternoon. Such a situation would make the best of them shiver in fear."

With thoughts of what might happen to them during the night, nevertheless the party eventually set up their camp and finally went to bed trying to sleep.

FORMER YEARS

SIX YEARS AGO THIS WEEK On the front page of THE SPECTATOR for January 22, 1924 there are very large letters these words "100 Years Out For The Endowment".

SEVEN YEARS AGO THIS WEEK THE SPECTATOR for January 14, 1924 has a Who's Who Column in which were write-ups of Prof. R. F. Miller and Mrs. Amanda Johnson. Mrs. Johnson was Dean of Women at that time and the article contained this statement about her, "She has a decided interest in their well being and proves to be the girls' best friend in M. C."

THE DOPE BUCKET

By the Sport Editor

It is a strict violation of the basketball rules and the rules of good sportsmanship for anyone on the sidelines to hiss an opposing player or team and the referee has the right to award the offending side a free throw upon such an offense. It is a technical foul to reach either the team or the referee from the sidelines and such actions may lose a game for a team if the contest is close.

Ten days remain until we play the Terrible Twos here. We will have a right to make "whoopie" if we win. The fashion-hatted quipster has more than once been picked as prime offender to deride the conference champion Bulldogs. They have a dandy team and a hard one to beat. Learn the lanky center, in a fine player, consistent basket driver, clean and athletic. When spread out on the defensive he makes one think of a Great Wall. The big boy has authority, too, the kind that is as inspiring to opposing players. It takes a good sport to stand by and let Larsoo display him without looking to be seen and committing a lot of personal fouls as a result of his aggression. Yesterday the basketball center was deadly in his free throw shooting. Eleven points have been scored by him in that route. Bulldogs, we guess him on good and play him off his feet, keep cool and the game is ours.

Leaving the conference championship to our friendly enemies to the north would actually be serious business. It is too serious to think about, but it might be better to give it some thought in advance of the game so that we can hit them all the harder when the time comes.

For the first time in fourteen years McPherson Bulldogs will not play the Battle Maroon, in the sub-stages of a lament we found in the weekly news from our neighboring college. It is too bad, even if the Baldwin-Bulldog game did always attract the largest crowds, but because of a Kansas conference ruling which allows each team to play at least one game during a season, we cannot play them this year for our schedule is packed to full without them. Now of course if that still want a game we had might prevail on October to send the same down or it might even be possible for one (perhaps) T-N-T to go down and give them a show. The lament is justified, we hope. As a result, it should be quite a bonus for our college team to get the chance to match itself against the nationally famous Bulldogs. Famous teams are always in demand. Look how glad we were to pay a big price to see the national champion Bulldogs play here two years ago. Now the teams have lost their attractiveness since they lost Butler and it is just too bad. That's all.

It has been reported that the Bulldogs are building a championship team this year and that they have a group of casters who should top any team in the country. This is not too early it might be said that hope has it that the title will remain in McPherson country again. The Bulldogs and Seneca went for the first time in 1970 on the local court, January 31, the spot where they beat us in the Bulldogs' last court battle last year. Surely that night will be one in which we can get them paid back for the way they treated us Thanksgiving Day. On February 26 they play them at Lindsborg. Keep that night open for every Bulldog who is Sweden's best.

FROM OTHER HILLS

One hundred fifty acres of Hogg Teachers College land has been leased to the city of Hays for the establishment of a municipal airport. The airport is to be operated in such a way that it will be beneficial to the public and the college.

Miss Florence Jackson, vocational adviser, said in addressing various groups during the Vocational Guidance Week at the University of Kansas that teaching as a profession is safe for women and that women are seriously interested in occupational education.

The Chronic Club of Kansas Wesleyan University will give the opera "Piafioris" early in the semester. It will be under student direction. No faculty member will assist except with the choirs of the cast. "Piafioris" enjoyed the great most success of any such opera produced in England. It was presented by McPherson College last year.

MIRROR PARTY GIVEN BY INTERPRETATION CLASS

Fri., Jan. 17—"If we could see ourselves as others see us..." The purpose of interpretation studies were the motto of their instructor, Miss Della Lehman, from eight o'clock to ten this evening at a mirror party in the Y. W. C. A. room. An impromptu program revolved much merriment and a delicious luncheon completed an enjoyable evening, according to those present. Miss Lehman received a mirror as prize for the best impersonation.

Of the seventeen members of the class, fourteen were present, and each represented in speech, action, and dress, a fellow classmate. The result, the interpreters declared, was unanimously funny.

Odean Clark as Lucille Crabb, Dennis Adee as Nellie Callias, Viola De Wilkes as Dennis Adams, Edna Hoover as Odessa Cris, Ruth Houston as Clara Furr Mahr, Nellie Collins as Edna Hoover, Philip Lawver as Viola De Wilkes (black eye, boots, skirt, coat), and all, Clara Furr Mahr as Lucille Yewell, Madeline Gray as Della Lehman, Blanche Holmgren as Ruth Houston, Luella Toder as Madeline Gray, Lucille Yewell as Ada Brink, Ada Brink as Philip Lawver, and Miss Lehman as Blanche Holmgren, revealed to their respective original characteristic traits of which they had been unconscious.

Impromptu speeches were then called for by Madeline Gray acting as Miss Lehman. Portable music, stands, and mirrors furnished the remainder of the program. Each group was presented with a mirror award.

The group then voted on the best impersonation and Miss Lehman received as first prize, a mirror. Madeline Gray (impersonation ranked second).

After a luncheon of fruit salad, soft wafers, hot chocolate and opera tickets, the group departed expressing their enjoyment and appreciation for the evening's fun.
